MONDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1900.

Mr. Cleveland has written another letter, but he neglects to mention the silver question. When he wants to speak, he does not hesitate to have himself interviewed, as was shown in his denunciation of "that man" for giving his attack upon Senator Logan away, but when Senator Vest asserts that he has opposed the subject of free coinage, or Cleveland pays never a word, although some of his organs have undertaken to get up a denial for him.

The Albany Evening Journal calls attention to some interesting facts: "The report of the Secretary of the Treasury shows the total national debt on Dec. 1 to have been $2,384,435,000. In 1880, it was $2,384,435,000. A reduction of $2,000,000,000 in twenty-five years. Yet the protective tariff which is said to have been the greatest of evils has resisted largely in this wonderful achievement, unequaled by any nation in the world."

According to the explanation of Mr. C. H. Nelson he has most indignant friends who assume to make a "stand" in the great station house in Boston without the great formation of consulting the party most interested. This friendship has resulted in the expulsion of Mr. Nelson and his horses from the National Trotting Association. It is too bad that the King of the turf should have any track closed to him after his record breaking performance last season, but in view of the facts this seemed the only course open for the Association.

"The Albany Herald is to a terrible state of mind because a Boston Congressman was told by a Republican member that he would "say nothing." This the Herald felt constrained to reprimand as a violation of parliamentary privilege. Last winter, however, when the Democratic Congressmen indulged in language that would disgrace a barroom, carrying the thing to far that the members were censured by a vote of the House, the Herald has not so far participated in editing the paper. The partanship of our preferred independent contemporary has rarely, if ever, been exceeded.

The American farmer with his slender up to a person to trifle with. — Albany Herald.

Our New York contemporary speaks with authority; it knows how it feels to run against the American farmer when his "dauber" it up. In the last campaign in the course of its numerous misrepresentations, the World was unfortunate enough to undertake to deceive the farmers as to the selling price of agricultural implements at home and abroad. It did not repeat the mistake as the American farmer literally circled the editor, convincing him of circulating an absolute falsehood. Since that time the World has had a wholesome respect for the farmer when he is "dauber" it up.

The Democrats having exploited the alleged Alliance gun at the Election Bill find that it was charged with a blank cartridge and are a good deal chagrined over the failure of what they had hoped would come cooperation among the Republicans. The methods by which the action of the corporation were controlled were so poorly concealed that the friends of the bill are in the least disturbed. Mr. Lowell, of Illinois, who is one of the strongest and most influential advocates of the bill, says that the Alliance indifference movement is promoted by the Democrats solely, with the hope of furthering the interest of their own party, and that the partisan action of yesterday will not be approved by farmers of the North and West. The farmers, he declared, believed in honest elections and the preservation of the Constitution, and when they could not understand the situation they would not permit themselves to be misled by the South. The only persons who would approve the action of the Alliance convention in this matter were those who were in favor of repealing or nullifying the XVth Amendment. He thought the passage of the resolution would cause some trouble in the Alliance. Mr. Custer, of Minnesota, said he thought the Alliance was controlled largely by the Southern branch in the interest of the Democrats. The Northern and Western farmers, he thought, would find that out. Mr. Carter, of Montana, said that the Alliance was an organization in the interest of the Democrats, having its origin in the South, and that every farmer who was in favor of honest elections and who opposed to fraud, intimidation and bribery would favor the passage of the Election Bill.

The Chicago Inter Ocean is making the free traders very unhappy by a presentation of facts showing the benefits of a protective tariff in this country. It has published the evidence of English free traders and from manufacturers, who visited the United States in company with the British and Steel Institutes of those countries as to the vastly higher rates of wages obtained by workers in this country, and later copied a great many English advertisements in proof of the generally low rate of compensation to workmen and women. It now contrasts a few English with a few American advertisements in proof of the cheaper rates at which many necessary articles are sold in the United States. It takes two English newspapers, the London Daily Standard and Yorkshire Post, published at Leeds, and compares the advertisements with those columns. An English advertisement announces as a "winter" overcoat at 20s. or 30s. There is an "American tariff" on woolen goods, a tariff that "robs the people" by increasing the price, says the free trader, but a better overcoat is advertised in Chicago for $2.75 and $3.75. The Standard announces horse blankets for 64 cents and a harness for 80c. In Chicago the same articles can be bought for 80c, 60c and 50c for blankets and $12.50 for a harness. In England "bargains" are offered in bed room sets at 47s. In Chicago a complete solid hardwood three piece bed room set, handsome mirror, dresser and combination commode is advertised for $11.50. In conclusion the Inter Ocean says: Two or three columns of space might be devoted to such contrasts between English and American lowest prices. But for the present proof sufficient has been adduced in behalf of the protective system, which has secured higher wages to labor, and lower prices for the mass of what labor buys than otherwise: a free trade is a land.

The manner in which the Democrats have captured the convention of the Farmers' Alliance will have the effect of disgusting a large body of farmers to the North and West who will seriously object to pulling wires as the orders of Bourbon Senators to Washington. These farmers went into the movement as one independent of the old parties, a decision they were permitted to cherish until after the election, but now they find that the organization upon which they mistakenly based strong hopes has been converted in a mere snarl of the Democratic party. It is the old story over again, but in this case the Democrats seem to have overreached themselves in their premature action will open the eyes of the farmers to the true situation.
